

Communities Discussions Terms of Use

Introduction

Community Discussions are an important opportunity for Advanced Pharmacy Australia (AdPha) members to support each other in their practice by sharing expertise, knowledge, resources and news.

When using the Discussions feature of AdPha Communities, you agree to these terms.

Terms of Use

Community Discussions are a form of social media. Posts are recorded and retained indefinitely and, despite being posted in a private setting, could become public.

Community Discussions posts should

- be respectful and collegiate
- declare conflicts of interest
- comply with
 - AHPRA social media guidance
 - AdPha Conflict of Interest Policy
 - AdPha Code of Ethics
- not disparage fellow members, AdPha or other organisations
- not be used for commercial gain
- not be used to advertise jobs, positions advertised on the AdPha Jobs Board are allowed
- not breach confidentiality of patients, colleagues or employers
- not be used to sell/disperse surplus stock.

Reporting posts

Members can report posts that contravene these guidelines. The AdPha Secretariat will be notified of reported posts and can take any required action.

Further assistance

Please contact the AdPha Specialty Practice team at specialtypractice@adpha.au.

Updated	June 2024	Review due	June 2025
---------	-----------	------------	-----------